ACADEMIC AFFAIRS

Our Co-Presidents lead and become the face of the organisation.

They campaign on behalf of students to ensure positive changes on anything that affects student life.

They regularly attend university meetings and influence policy and change at the most senior levels.

The Co-President for Academic Affairs role focuses on developing course quality and provision, services and educational opportunities.

Akeem Ishola

Vote a follower leader vote for progressive

Introduce yourself!

My name is Akeem Idrees Ishola, an international Master's student in Project Management at the University of Law. Studying at ULaw has shown me both the opportunities and challenges international students face, from academic pressure to work and visa concerns. I am a natural leader who believes leadership is about listening, supporting others, and taking action. I am passionate about improving support for international students, expanding part-time job opportunities, and advocating for clear post-study work guidance. I am committed to representing students with integrity, empathy, and purpose.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I am fit for the role of Student Union President because I lead with confidence and care. I am an efficient listener who understands different perspectives and communicates clearly so students feel heard. I have strong skills in leading people, building trust, and turning ideas into action. Most importantly, I am a loving and approachable person who genuinely cares about students' wellbeing, success, and future, and will represent them with integrity.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition as Student Union President is to be a strong, visible voice for students and drive real change at ULaw. I want to challenge systems that limit opportunity, strengthen support for international students, expand access to part-time work, and push for clear post-study pathways. I am committed to building a Student Union that acts, delivers, and puts students first

Antony Thadikkaran

Representing students with clarity, fairness, and action

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Antony, a postgraduate student at ULaw Manchester, currently studying Business Analytics. I have experience balancing academic commitments with part-time work, which has given me a strong understanding of the real challenges students face. I am highly organised, approachable, and passionate about improving the student experience across campuses. I enjoy working with data, feedback, and evidence to drive meaningful change, and I value listening to students from all backgrounds to ensure their voices are heard and represented.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am a good fit because I combine strong communication with practical problem-solving. Through my studies and work experience, I have developed organisation, teamwork, and the ability to represent different perspectives fairly. I understand the academic and personal pressures students face and want to ensure their voices lead to meaningful change. I am reliable, approachable, and committed to working collaboratively with students, staff, and the Union to deliver clear, achievable outcomes.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition is to strengthen how student voices influence real decisions at ULaw. I want to improve communication between students, the Union, and the University by using clear feedback channels and evidence-based discussion. I would support campaigns around academic support, wellbeing, and transparency, while organising accessible events that engage students across all campuses. Ultimately, I want students to feel listened to, informed, and confident that the Union delivers practical improvements.

Ashwini Appavoo

Vote for a new perspective

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Ashwini Appavoo. I'm studying the Bar Practice Course at the University of Law, Birmingham. I'm passionate about advocacy and excited to build my skills as I work toward a career at the Bar. I enjoy meeting new people, learning from different perspectives, and getting involved in campus life. Looking forward to connecting with everyone this year.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I'm a good fit for this role because I'm committed, organised, and genuinely enjoy supporting others. Through my academic journey and personal experiences, I've developed strong communication skills, the ability to stay calm under pressure, and a collaborative mindset. I'm someone who listens, understands different perspectives, and works hard to create a positive environment. I want to take on this role because I care about helping students feel supported and connected, and I'm motivated to contribute to a community where everyone can thrive.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition for this role is to help create a more connected, supportive, and engaging student community. I want to organise activities that bring students together, such as study support sessions, wellbeing check-ins, and social events that make campus life more enjoyable. I'm also interested in identifying common challenges students face and working on practical solutions, whether that's improving communication, creating spaces for feedback, or raising awareness about available support. My goal is to make sure every student feels heard, included, and empowered throughout the year.

Deepa Valand

Deepa Delivers for your Degree

Introduce yourself!

My name is Deepa, I am a Law LLB student at Ulaw, studying at the Birmingham campus! I am passionate about student representation and ensuring that student voices are heard and acted upon. I am currently a Class Representative and Employability Ambassador, where I work closely with students and staff to improve communication, access to resources, and the overall academic experience.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

My strong dedication to student representation and clear communication makes me an excellent candidate for the position of Academic Affairs Co-President, in my opinion. I have continuously served as a liaison between students and faculty, voicing issues, and enhancing the educational experience through my positions as Employability Ambassador and Class Representative. My capacity to actively listen, advocate, and encourage others are all essential components of advocating for students' academic interests.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My first ambition would be to help students with academic support and development. I would do this by creating "Study with me" areas, these areas would have weekly themed study sessions with different topics. These "Study with me" session could also invite staff for mini talks.

My next ambition would be around student wellbeing. I want to create wellbeing events monthly/before any exams. The events would promote student wellbeing, give tips and motivate.

Another ambition would be to improve communication between staff and students. This would be achieved by creating a digital suggestion box.

Haseeb Ahmad

Not just a leader — your teammate

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Haseeb. A Msc strategic business management student at Manchester Campus. I'm passionate about improving student life and making sure every voice is heard. I've been involved in different social activities, where I learned teamwork and leadership. I'm approachable, organized, and always happy to help. I'm running for co-president to make our campus more connected, supportive, and fun for everyone.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I'm a good fit because I listen to people and take action. Through my experiences in [group work/jobs/clubs], I've developed communication, teamwork, and problem-solving skills. I'm reliable and motivated to represent students fairly. I don't just want the title — I want to make a real difference by turning student feedback into real improvements.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My goal is to improve student engagement and wellbeing. I'd like to organize more social and academic events, strengthen communication between students and staff, and make support services easier to access. I want students to feel heard and involved in decisions that affect them. A connected campus is a successful campus.

Hristo Georgiev

A Ulaw fit for purpose, fit for all - Vote for Hristo Georgiev.

Introduce yourself!

Dear student, I am Hristo Georgiev, and I am running to be YOUR Co-President of the Student Union for Academic Affairs, so let me tell you about me:

I am in my third and final year of studying an LLB in Law with Government and Politics at the Bloomsbury campus.

I volunteer as a political activist in my local area in Croydon, in South London. I also work to run the Student Debating Society on my campus together with my closest friends, and we started doing this as a project because the previous society had been inactive, and we were passionate about having a community for debate.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

As a Class Representative in 2024-25, I actively encouraged honest, personal feedback during workshops and outside of class. This allowed me to identify both positive experiences and recurring issues around course delivery, which I raised directly with Academic Leads. As a founding member and Secretary of the Student Debate Society, I developed strong organisational, oversight, and safeguarding skills. I introduced stricter vetting measures for admitting new members, while keeping debate moderation measured and liberal. I have contributed to creating a strong community of 276 students.

What are your ambitions for the role?

1. Your Options Welcome Events will be introduced each semester on every campus to provide clear, accessible academic and administrative guidance for all students.
2. An Administrative Complaints System to be created to ensure transparency, accountability, and fair resolution.
3. Academic Coaches and "How to Ace Your Assessment" sessions to be replaced with a structured Academic Mentorship Scheme.
4. A Semi-Annual Quality of Teaching Review will be launched to improve teaching standards.
5. The Employability Service will be reformed through a Professional Development Plan for students.

Jahid Kadry

Vote JAHID – Your Voice,
Your Experience, Your Change

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Md Jahidul Islam Kadry, a University of Law student who believes every student deserves to feel heard, supported, and represented. I enjoy working with people from diverse backgrounds and finding practical solutions to everyday challenges students face. Outside my studies, I enjoy creative work, teamwork, and getting involved in projects that bring positive change. I'm standing in this election because I want to represent students honestly and make sure our voices lead real action.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am a good fit because I listen first and act responsibly. Through my academic journey and work experience, I have developed strong communication, organisation, and problem-solving skills. I am reliable, approachable, and comfortable representing others' views, not just my own. I understand the pressures students face balancing studies, work, and personal life, and I am committed to working constructively with staff and students to improve support systems. I take leadership seriously and will always represent students with integrity.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition is to help create a more inclusive, supportive, and transparent student experience. I want to improve communication between students and the university, support wellbeing initiatives, and help address common academic and practical concerns. I aim to promote student engagement through events, feedback forums, and clear representation of student issues. Most importantly, I want students to feel confident that their concerns are listened to and acted upon, not ignored.

Jana Holeckova-Francis

Introduce yourself!

Hello,

My name is Jana and I have served as your Co-President for Academic Affairs for the past seven months. I am running for re-election as I would like to continue what I have started and keep the momentum going.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

So far, I have actively represented you by participating in influencing programme reviews, and securing module reforms to help reduce stress for future students. I have also actively represented you when questions needed answering or when things went wrong, ensuring that your voice is heard and acted upon. Working with staff and students, I expanded the inter-campus mooting competition to include all law students and successfully organized Simulation Day - Law to bridge the gap between theory and practice while providing our law students with invaluable practical experience.

What are your ambitions for the role?

If elected, I will aim to:

1. Continue representing your academic interests to ensure open and effective communication between students and staff.
2. Prioritise the well-being of all students by ensuring that ULaw's excellent support services remain accessible to all and strive to ensure that students feel empowered to prioritise their mental health.
3. Expand on current projects not just for law students but also introduce new projects for our business students to give all our students as many opportunities as possible to get involved and get some practical experience.

Manu Kaur

Why do you think you are a good fit?

Ability to empower others

What are your ambitions for the role?

I am ambitious for this leadership role because I want to make a meaningful impact, not just participate. I'm driven by growth—both my own and that of the people around me. I'm eager to take responsibility, lead by example, and turn ideas into action. This role gives me the opportunity to challenge myself, develop strong leadership skills, and contribute to positive outcomes for the team. I don't see leadership as a title, but as a commitment to serve, support, and inspire others to perform at their best.”

Sara Sikora

Vote for SOS, to solve your stress!

Introduce yourself!

Hi! I'm Sara, a BPC student in Leeds ULaw. Having very recently completed my undergraduate degree at ULaw Manchester, I've experienced student life across two of our major hubs. I currently balance my studies with work as a paralegal, giving me a professional perspective on the academic support we need to succeed. When I'm not in the library, I'm likely being bossed around by my cute chihuahua, Megi! My journey from Manchester to Leeds has shown me our community's strengths and the stress we face. I'm ready to use my experience to be your academic lifeline. Vote SOS!

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am outspoken and unafraid to advocate for the changes we need. Having served as a Class Rep, 3rd-Year LLB Rep, EDI Director, Money Mentor, and Senior Prefect, I have a proven track record of student leadership. My experience as a Money Mentor means I understand the practical pressures students face outside the classroom. These roles have taught me how to negotiate with senior staff and deliver results. I am ready to be your 'critical friend' to the university, ensuring our academic voices are heard and our stress is managed effectively.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My mission is to solve your stress. I'll push for more practice and detailed, actionable feedback so we are fully prepared for assessments. I want to implement a flexible 'Catch-Up' protocol for missing lessons and guarantee practical work experience for everyone. I'll advocate for a curriculum that includes life skills, practical application, and the commercial awareness required in law firms. I'll ensure our education goes beyond the books to make us practice-ready for the real world and the senior level. I will personally tackle any queries you have, ensuring your voice is heard.

Simon Burrows

Vote Simon — Let's create a future we're proud of

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Simon, a Business Management student at the Manchester campus. I bring real-world leadership as a former sales manager, business owner, and previous Business Rep. I also served as Vice President at my previous university, giving me insight into how different campuses can thrive. As a mature student, I understand the pressures many of us face. I'm running to build a more supportive, ambitious, and opportunity-driven student experience

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I'm stepping forward because I believe every student deserves a voice that is heard and a leader who stands beside them. My experiences as a sales manager, business owner, Business Rep, and former Vice President at another university have taught me how to lead with purpose, compassion, and resilience. I want to use these skills to inspire positive change, strengthen our community, and help every student feel supported, confident, and capable of achieving more

What are your ambitions for the role?

I want to create events that genuinely help students thrive. My plans include student-led focus groups where we support each other with practical tasks like formatting reports, understanding expectations, and improving academic work. I also want to run online sessions with staff to give clear guidance, build confidence, and help every student reach their full potential

Syed Naeem

Putting the "U" in ULaw Academics

Introduce yourself!

My name is Syed Maaz Naeem, and I am running for Lead Academic Affairs to ensure ULaw's academic environment is as ambitious as your career goals. Your degree is a major investment; I am committed to making sure the university's policies work for you.

My focus is on three pillars: transparent feedback, enhanced digital resources, and bridging the gap between theory and practice. I will be your persistent voice in faculty meetings, turning your concerns into actionable change. Let's make our academic experience more inclusive and future-focused. Your voice, our future.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am the right fit because I combine a deep understanding of student challenges with the professional diplomacy needed to drive change. My experience has taught me how to analyze complex issues and present them as solutions, making me an effective bridge between students and faculty. I am approachable, organized, and—above all—dedicated to results. I don't just listen to problems; I create action plans. Choosing me means choosing a Lead who is ready to advocate fiercely for your academic rights and ensure every ULaw student has the tools to excel.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition for this role is to transform the student-faculty dynamic into a proactive partnership. I aim to modernize the feedback process by advocating for a transparent, timely system that allows us to improve in real-time. I also intend to streamline digital resources to ensure every student has seamless support. Ultimately, I will work to bridge the gap between our curriculum and the legal profession, ensuring our time at ULaw builds a future-ready foundation for our careers. I want to leave this role knowing the academic path is clearer and more supportive for everyone.

Thea Harman

Vote for Thea: for accessibility, accountability and student first aligned services, not paychecks!

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Thea. I've studied at Leeds and Manchester on the PGDL and the LLM, so I understand what students need. As a Student Ambassador and Student Support Services admin, I've helped students navigate extensions, extenuating circumstances and university rules. I'm an international and disabled student, so accessibility and fairness are personal. I'm organised, calm under pressure, and trained in mediation, so I can turn feedback into practical change. I enjoy swimming, arts and crafts, baking, caring for animals, and getting to know others and their cultures.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I'm running for Co-President (Academic Affairs) to make the academic experience fair, clear and student-centred. In student support administration I helped students through extensions, ECs, module changes and withdrawals, so I know where processes break down. In pro bono clinic work I've listened carefully, researched complex issues and communicated advice clearly under pressure. With mediation training, I can challenge decisions calmly and build agreement. I'll push for transparent assessment criteria, better feedback, and support that's consistent and accessible.

What are your ambitions for the role?

In Academic Affairs, my ambition is to deliver the 3 A's—accessible, accountable, student-first aligned services. I'll run an "Assessment Clarity" campaign: clear marking criteria, exemplars, and realistic deadlines. I'll publish a student "what to do..." guide for international students since all timed exams must be written on campus. I'll launch a feedback tracker with turnaround targets, and push for accessible materials (readable formats, captions, clear slides) in all classes as the norm. I'll hold monthly Academic Drop-ins and report back on progress.

Vanshika Vanshika

Putting Learning First

Introduce yourself!

Hello everyone! My name is Vanshika and I'm part of the London Mortgage community. I'm excited to learn and grow alongside you this term. My background includes MSC Project Management which has shaped how I approach learning—practical, supportive, and student-focused. I'm always happy to answer questions, so please don't hesitate to reach out. I'm looking forward to a great semester together!

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am putting myself forward for this leadership role because I genuinely care about improving the academic experience for all students. I want to be a strong, approachable voice that listens to concerns and works collaboratively to create positive change. Through my studies, work, and involvement in teams, I have developed strong communication, organisation, and problem-solving skills. I have learned how to balance responsibilities, work with diverse groups, and lead with empathy and fairness. These experiences have prepared me to represent students effectively, advocate for their needs.

What are your ambitions for the role?

If elected, I would focus on activities that directly improve the student academic experience. This includes creating regular student forums to gather feedback and raise concerns, and working with staff to improve communication around assessments, deadlines, and feedback. I would also campaign for fair assessment practices and clearer academic guidance, ensuring all students feel supported and informed. Most importantly, I want to make sure students' voices are heard and turned into real, positive change.

UNION DEVELOPMENT

Our Co-Presidents lead and become the face of the organisation.

They campaign on behalf of students to ensure positive changes on anything that affects student life.

They regularly attend university meetings and influence policy and change at the most senior levels.

The Co-President for Union Development role focuses on developing communities and opportunities to get involved, whilst working with ULaw on more general services.

Aaron Speak

Speak for Change.

Introduce yourself!

Hey ULaw students, I'm Aaron, a Manchester-based LLB student looking to become one of your next Co-Presidents before I continue onto the Bar. I've never seen a future Bar student win (or even campaign) in these elections, so your votes more than ever can speak for change!

During my studies, I've been a Class Rep and a Society President. I truly believe a strong Student Voice is what separates excellent universities from the good and great. To achieve that, our Union needs leadership unafraid to disrupt the status quo when in students' interest. My track record at ULaw is of doing just that!

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I'm a strong fit to represent Union Development because I truly understand what happens around the University. Past SU Elections reflect grand pledges underdelivered, or "new ideas" already happening. My focus is on delivering where it really matters. I've represented you leading the University Mental Health Charter submission, exceeded expectations in contributing to the SU, and become the standard for Leading Inclusivity at the Awards. I don't say this to be impressive, but as proof of my tangible impact since Day One. In 2026, that matters more than vague promises.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambitions are to strengthen the SU as an advocate, backing student-led campaigns; put Clubs/Societies fully into student leadership; create SU hubs on every campus to connect students with their Union; establish a Student Mental Health Advisory Board to challenge how the University supports you; and ensure Widening Participation efforts genuinely impact students' daily experience in the ways that matter to you.

I'll lead with impact-focused ambition, so you can see and hold me accountable when your Union truly works for you. Vote Speak for Change, and let your voice heard.

Abdu Motala

Set the Precedent, Vote Abdu for Co-President.

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Abdu, a third-year LLB Law student at ULaw Bristol. Growing up in Gloucester, I learnt the power of community whilst spending time in my dad's store, the oldest Asian convenience store in the city. Balancing study with commuting, I understand how easy it is to feel disconnected from campus life, which fuels my commitment to student engagement. Besides studying, I play football and train boxing, hobbies that have taught me discipline and inclusivity. I'm standing for Co-President to help build a unified ULaw where every student feels welcomed, supported, and inspired to get involved.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I firmly believe I'm a strong fit for co-President (Union Development) because I understand both the challenges and potential of student life at ULaw. I've lived the commuter experience and seen how easy it is to feel excluded, however my goal is to make ULaw better for every student regardless of whether you live on campus or commute. Through my life experiences, I've developed a natural ability to connect with people from all walks of life and bring them together and ultimately, my guiding principle is simple: if you study here, you belong here.

What are your ambitions for the role?

If elected, my ambition is to reshape the social experience at ULaw, so every student feels genuinely connected to campus life. I will work to embed more daytime, low-cost, and inclusive activities that fit around student schedules, while creating meaningful opportunities that bring different courses and year groups together. I want a Students' Union that is visibly present, proactive, and consistently communicating so no student feels overlooked or uninformed. Above all I want to build a lasting sense of belonging and community where students feel proud to be part of the ULaw community.

Abozar Khan

Your voice, your union, your future.
Together, we build a better union.

Introduce yourself!

My name is Abozar Khan, and I am an international student studying MSc Project Management at the University of Law Birmingham campus. As an international student, I understand the challenges students face when adapting to a new academic system, culture, and support services. I enjoy engaging with students, listening to their concerns, and working collaboratively to improve students' social life and overall student experience.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am a good fit because I am motivated, organized, and my aim is to improve students' participation in the union. Being a student of Project Management, I have enriched my skills in planning, communication, and teamwork, which are essential for union development. I love turning feedback into practical actions. I am committed to helping the student union grow by increasing awareness and trust among the students.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition for the role is to build a union that truly represents students. I will try my best to increase students' engagement with the union and ensure each and every student that the student union supports them. I want to help students get involved through campaigns, events, and feedback sessions.

Asfand Akbar

time to change yourself, vote and support for equal rights

Introduce yourself!

Hi, Myself Asfand Akbar from Manchester Campus currently in final term doing MSc Project Management. Interesting facts or experience means a lot to me to adopt from anything new that matters for polishing yourself, my experience is that I worked in some companies where I learn how to solve problems in a critical situation.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

Yes I am a good fit because I have experience of dealing with such a situation where nothing works

What are your ambitions for the role?

I will organize events as well as study trips where students learn and adopt things quickly

Chigozie Molokwu

Vote Chigozie, Vote for a Voice

Introduce yourself!

My name is Chigozie Nriaka-Molokwu. I am a student of Ulaw Manchester and I'm studying MSc Business Analytics. I love sports and I'm a former champion of the Zenith's Principal Cup 2017. I'm an ex sports prefect of Mastercare International School, Asaba, Nigeria. I have a Bachelor's degree in Law and I'm a member of the Afe Babalola University Alumni Association, and Afe Babalola Drug-Free Club. Finally I'm a DJ.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I'm putting myself forward for Union Development because I genuinely enjoy supporting people and building positive communities. From being a sports prefect and Zenith Principal's Cup champion to working in operational roles and student groups, I've learned teamwork, resilience, and how to bring people together. These experiences have shaped my confidence, communication, and leadership, and I want to use them to help create a more inclusive and supportive student environment.

What are your ambitions for the role?

I want to create activities that genuinely bring students together. I'd like to run community-building events (talent shows), support cultural and social societies. I also want to work on issues like improving communication, making support services easier to access. I have a certification in SLT: Integrating EAL and SEND provision in school which will help me understand how to help students whom find it hard to communicate in English cope in the university. Also I want to help create connections for real employability for international students.

Eleciae Green

Vote for Generational Revolution!

Introduce yourself!

Hey! My name is Eleciae Green, but most people like to call me Lecie (it's French). My campus is based in Manchester, and the course that I am currently undertaking is, LLB (Hons) Law. I had a profound interest in Law, wanted to understand it on a deeper level, and I decided to pursue it, as my chosen career path, from the age of 16. I am a devoted believer, in Jesus Christ and with that, I am a youth leader at my local church. I have met and conversed with judges, such as HHJ Entwistle and DJ Hammond. I love travelling, I've been to: Jamaica 6x, Cyprus and Portugal.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe that I am a good fit & have put myself forward for this leadership role. I am extremely dedicated to my work, wanting to give my all. I have been a youth leader for 7 years, and have contributed towards the young people of my Church, by giving them advice, in terms of their spiritual journey and life in general. I can be a friend, and a mentor all at the same time. I can apply my role to this role. I am about union and coming as one, regardless of, faith and ethnicity. We are more able to reach a goal where everyone can get equal amount of support and opportunities.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambitions for this role, is to make a positive difference for every individual in the education system. For example: doing TED talks, explaining how society has changed throughout the years, and how we can make a positive impact with our beliefs and opinions. Doing sponsored walks, sip and paint (no alcohol), and participating in World Cultural Day.

Jagveer Singh

Together we lead, together we grow.

Introduce yourself!

Hello everyone, my name is Jagveer Singh, and I'm standing for Co-President. I am a dedicated, responsible, and approachable person who believes strong leadership is built on teamwork, honesty, and clear communication. With experience in operations management, customer service, and working with diverse teams, I understand how to listen, organise, and take action. If elected, I will work to represent everyone fairly, encourage new ideas, and help create a positive, inclusive environment where every voice matters. I would truly appreciate your support.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I'm a good fit for Co-President because I have leadership experience and a genuine passion for improving the student experience. I thrive in collaborative environments and am committed to advocating for students, solving problems proactively, and making Ulaw's student community stronger and more inclusive.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition as Co-President is to make sure every student's voice is heard, improve wellbeing and support, organize inclusive events, and create opportunities for students to get involved and make a real impact on campus life.

Junaid Iqbal

Representing students, Every step

Introduce yourself!

My name is Junaid Iqbal, a student at ULaw London Moorgate studying MSc Project Management. During my bachelor's, I was Finance Manager for S.H.E.D, gaining leadership, organisation, and teamwork skills. As an international student, I faced challenges adjusting to university life and see new students facing the same. I am motivated to support student wellbeing, ensure the Union is accessible to all, and be a strong voice by listening and helping students find the support they need.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am putting myself forward because I am passionate about representing students and ensuring their voices are heard. Through my involvement with university societies during my bachelor's and my experience as a teacher, I have developed strong communication, teamwork, and problem solving skills. Working with students from diverse backgrounds has taught me the importance of listening, fairness, and reliability. I am motivated to create positive change and support student wellbeing.

What are your ambitions for the role?

As Co-President, my aim is to build an inclusive, active, and supportive student community. I will expand sports like cricket, football, badminton, and table tennis to promote health and reduce stress. I plan seminars on gender equality, breast cancer, and LGBTQ+ inclusion with international organisations. I also want to celebrate cultural diversity and organise regular student get-togethers to connect, share experiences, reduce stress, and strengthen belonging

Kajal Ranavaya

Stronger Union, Stronger Students

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I am Kajal Ranavaya, a student of MSc Cybersecurity Management at The University of Law Birmingham campus, with a background in Computer Engineering. As an international student, I understand the challenges students face both academically and socially, from adapting to new systems to balancing studies and wellbeing. I'm passionate about listening to students, turning concerns into action, and creating positive change. I'm standing for this role to represent your voice honestly and work towards a better student experience.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I'm a good fit for this role because I truly want to support students and make a positive difference. As an international student with a background in Computer Engineering, I've learned how to communicate clearly, solve problems, and work well with others. My experiences have helped me become organised, approachable, and confident in listening to different perspectives. I want to use these skills to represent students honestly, raise their concerns, and help improve the overall student experience.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition in this role is to make sure students feel heard, supported, and represented. I want to create regular opportunities for students to share their concerns through open forums and feedback sessions. I aim to work with the university and the Students' Union to address common issues such as academic pressure, wellbeing support, and clear communication. I would like to help organise inclusive events that bring students together and build a stronger sense of community. My goal is to turn student feedback into real action and positive change.

Kal Ross-Hart

Your Voice!

Introduce yourself!

My name is Kal Ross-Hart. I am a final-year LLB student and aspiring barrister. Some of you may know me already as the President of the Student Debate Society. I have also worked for the University of Law as an Employability Ambassador and have previously been a Class Representative.

Throughout my time at The University of Law I have strived to improve the social experience and sense of community on campus. By electing me as SU Co-President for Union Development this ambition will become my full-time role and I will do my utmost for you, my fellow students, and for our community.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I am the man for the job because I have the skills and tools this task demands.

I have been the President of a successful society for 2 years. Under my leadership we have hosted 12 amazing events and grown to almost 300 members. Communication and events are at the heart of the social experience and the Student Debate Society has been a consistent hub for students to debate, make friends, and hone their skills.

During this time I have worked closely with the Students' Union and have built an excellent relationship with them. We have had a fruitful relationship and their hard work is most appreciated yet I believe I have identified areas for improvement.

By attending university and outside events I have built an extensive network including recruiters and professionals in the legal sector. These are contacts who I will call upon in my role as Co-President to offer incentives and opportunities FOR YOU. I have personally been able to help fellow students to obtain experiences and internships but as Co-President I will be able to put my network to task for the entire student body of ULaw!

What are your ambitions for the role?

I want to make our community and Students' Union the envy of other universities. That means more societies, more sports, more events, more opportunities and more fun for YOU!

I will lead a project for the creation of more societies and clubs. Our students are ambitious and full of great ideas; they just need support and encouragement. I will organise workshops to show students how they can make their dreams of running a society a reality!

I will lead a campaign for new sports clubs at our university. Your voices have been heard. Sports are an important part of social and academic life and here at ULaw we are far behind other universities in this respect. I call upon you to show the SU that we want sports! I will work tirelessly with sporting venues and the SU to get the ball rolling for sports at ULaw.

I will create inter-campus collaboration by organising national events for students to network, share ideas, and plan together. Elect me and The University of Law will become a truly connected community!

Kashish Kashish

More Than a Union- A Community That Cares

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Kashish, a BSc (Hons) Business Management student at the Bloomsbury campus. University life in the UK can be exciting but also isolating, especially when you're juggling studies, work, finances, and everything else life throws at you. I've experienced what it feels like to search for belonging in a busy city and a fast-paced academic environment. I believe the Students' Union should be a place where everyone feels welcomed, supported, and represented. I'm passionate about helping students connect, feel heard, and make the most of their time at university.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I'm a good fit because I genuinely listen and care about people's experiences. I'm approachable, organised, and committed to turning student voices into action. Through teaching and working in team environments, I've learned how important empathy, communication, and reliability are. As a Business Management student, I understand how strong communities are built through collaboration. I don't want this role for status, I want it to support students, strengthen societies, and help the Union feel relevant and accessible to everyone.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition is to help build a Students' Union that supports students through the real challenges of university life. I want to encourage more inclusive events, stronger support for societies, and more opportunities for students to get involved, no matter their background or confidence level. I also want clearer communication so students always know what support and opportunities are available. My aim is simple: a Union that brings people together and genuinely improves the student experience.

Lathusa Siva

Your Voice Matters

Introduce yourself!

Hi, my name is Lathusa and I'm a third year Law and Criminology student at ULaw Nottingham. I've been at the university for a while now and understand both the academic and social sides of student life. When I first joined, I found it difficult to get involved due to anxiety, which helped me understand how isolating university can sometimes feel. Outside of my studies, I love dancing and have been dancing since I was five, which has helped build my confidence and sense of community.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I am a good fit for this role because I'm empathetic, approachable, and genuinely care about student wellbeing. Having struggled with anxiety when trying to get involved at university, I understand the importance of creating welcoming and supportive spaces. Through my experiences in both my studies and personal life, I've developed strong communication and listening skills. I'm motivated to represent students fairly and ensure everyone feels comfortable sharing their views and concerns.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition in this role is to create a more inclusive and supportive student experience by making it easier for students to get involved in university life. I want to help students who may feel anxious or unsure about where to start by promoting accessible activities and clear communication. I am approachable and genuinely care about listening to students' concerns, ensuring their voices are heard and represented. By supporting initiatives that build confidence, connection, and community, I hope to make university a more welcoming and enjoyable place for everyone.

Mahadi Masud

Building a Stronger Union, Together

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I'm Mahadi H Masud, a postgraduate student at ULaw Birmingham, studying MSc Leadership and Human Resource Management. I previously completed a degree in Apparel Manufacturing and Technology, which built my interest in organisation and problem-solving.

I'm interested in leadership and student engagement, and I enjoy listening to students and turning ideas into practical improvements. I believe a strong Students' Union should be inclusive, well-organised, and focused on delivering real value for students.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I'm a strong fit for Union Development because I enjoy improving systems and turning ideas into action. My studies in Leadership and HR have strengthened my organisational, problem-solving, and teamwork skills. I've also learned to listen, communicate, and collaborate effectively. I want to contribute to making the Students' Union more inclusive, organised, and responsive to student needs, ensuring it delivers real value for everyone across ULaw campuses.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition is to make the Students' Union more engaging and effective for all students. I would focus on improving communication, creating feedback channels, and ensuring student ideas are heard. I aim to organise events that bring students together, support wellbeing, and build community. I'd also develop campaigns to improve services and resources, making the Union more responsive and inclusive. My goal is to turn student input into practical actions that positively impact campus life.

Nikunj Vaghela

Your Voice, Our Action, Stronger Union

Introduce yourself!

Hello everyone,

My name is Nikunj Vaghela I am contesting for Union Development with the vision of unity, progress, and student empowerment. I want to be a responsible representative who listens to students and works actively for the betterment of our university.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I am a good fit for this role because I genuinely care about student development and representation. I am a good listener, approachable, and committed to working collaboratively with students and the Students' Union. Through my academic and social experiences, I have developed communication, teamwork, and problem-solving skills. I want to ensure that student voices are heard and that positive, practical changes are made to improve student life at the university.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition for this role is to actively support student development and wellbeing. I want to work on improving communication between students and the Union, organising inclusive events, and addressing common student concerns such as academic support, facilities, and student engagement. I aim to promote unity, encourage participation in Union activities, and help create a supportive and positive environment where all students feel represented and valued.

Rubeel Ahmed

Making Every Student Count (Your Trust, My Commitment)

Introduce yourself!

Hi, I am Rubeel Ahmed from Pakistan and belong to a middle-class family. I completed my Master's in Finance from Government University of Faisalabad. After graduation, I joined Allied Bank as an MTO, with the goal of becoming a Banking Operations Officer. Later, I decided to pursue further studies and got admission in UoLaw University to study Leadership and Human Resource Management. In my free time, I enjoy playing badminton. In the future, I aim to work for international students and eventually enter politics to serve the humanity and make a positive impact."

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I believe I am a strong fit for this leadership role because I am passionate about representing and supporting international students. My background in finance and leadership studies has equipped me with strong organizational, analytical, and problem-solving skills. Working at Allied Bank taught me discipline, teamwork, and effective communication, while my current studies in Leadership and Human Resource Management have strengthened my ability to motivate and manage diverse groups.

What are your ambitions for the role?

My ambition in this role is to create a supportive, inclusive, and engaging environment for all international students. I aim to address common challenges such as adapting to campus life, building connections, and accessing resources. I plan to organize social, cultural, and educational events that celebrate diversity.

Saphia Peten

You are in charge of your own future, but you don't have to battle on your own. Vote for Saphia.

Introduce yourself!

Hello, everyone!

My name's Saphia and I'm hoping to become your future Co-President Union Development. I'm about to complete my last year in my 2-year LLB Law (Accelerated) course at the Leeds Campus.

I'm from Mauritius and moved to England at barely to complete my education. Moving away from my family and everything I used to know remains perhaps the biggest change I've ever done in my life.

I'm a loner and independent by nature, but if there's one thing I've learned from moving abroad, it's the importance of opening myself to other people.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I've developed strong communication and leadership skills when I was President of one of the Societies at my previous university and through my rigorous academic work. I'm confident bringing students together, especially in a competitive world such as the legal system, is essential for their personal growth. I care about building inclusive communities, listening to student voices, and developing a support system through the students' social circle. I'm organized and well committed on improving the student life.

What are your ambitions for the role?

- More group projects to be done, such as presentations and research, so students will collaborate together, not just inside the classroom.
- 'Immersive Court Proceedings' where students would be able to work in pairs/groups in a (fictional) case and go through something that is as close to an 'actual' Court Proceeding. Law firm representatives, lecturers, recruiters can assist to it (either as Jury or audience).
- Workshops where students can talk to people in the job on how to manage staying professional and emotionally detached without being cold and unsympathetic to clients.

Shreyada Regmi

Vote For A Connected ULaw!

Introduce yourself!

I am Shreyada, studying at the London Moorgate campus. I love movies, going around museums, libraries, and just having a face-to-face conversation on topics. I went to the Oxford Tour and Jack the Ripper tour. I wish to have more of these community building opportunities.

Why do you think you are a good fit?

I have experience of running student-led clubs from my undergraduate years. I remember that time being full of student-led clubs that brought the whole university together at one place. I miss that here and I want to create that experience here at ULaw for everyone. I have been a Club Coordinator in my undergraduates and I have prior work experience where I have been a part organising teams within the workplace which have given me working knowledge of running events, the logistics, the dedication, the managerial, and the soft skills required for it.

What are your ambitions for the role?

1. Revive existing and/or create new student societies that function uniformly in all campuses. Some campuses have events and societies; some are dry in terms of social events led by students with students. My agenda is to make the societies have a common functionality across campuses by having representatives in each campus.
2. Create opportunities for cross-campus interactions and networking amongst students. There are no formal or regular meetings or chances for students from different campuses to meet. My agenda is to address this issue through official union led opportunities of socialising and networking regularly throughout the year.
3. Increase the number of on-campus activities (including but not limited to in-person talk sessions). While online events are convenient, they do not produce tangible results in terms of networking and relation building. My agenda is to have one or two flagship events and other fringe events in-person with relevant guests from the industry to facilitate networking and knowledge sharing.
